

Table of Contents

Note from the Editors	8
Jewish art in Central–Eastern Europe: the nineteenth century to the Second World War. Introduction (JERZY MALINOWSKI).	9
SZYMON RUDNICKI: Jews in Poland between the Two World Wars	15
EWA GELLER: Yiddishland — Jewish identity in East Central Europe	25
MARIA PIECHOTKA, KAZIMIERZ PIECHOTKA : Architecture of synagogues in the lands of the former Polish–Lithuanian Commonwealth, 15 th — early 19 th century	33
ELEONORA BERGMAN: Synagogues of Europe — still much to learn	53
MARCOS SILBER: The function of Kazimierz as lieu de mémoire in Yiddish film in interwar Poland	63
BRACHA YANIV: The wall decoration in the Isaac Synagogue in Kazimierz District, Krakow: the first overall layer	75
ULF G. HAXEN: Yehuda Leib ben Eliyya Ha–Cohen’s Haggadah. Copenhagen, 1769. A Jewish artist in the making?	83
IWONA BRZEWSKA: The motif of Jerusalem in Jewish tapestry and ritual objects in Polish collections	91
WALDEMAR DELUGA: Jewish German graphic amulets from the eighteenth century.	99
ANNA LEBET–MINAKOWSKA: The “Spanier Arbeit” technique	105
MALGORZATA REINHARD–CHLANDA: Role of stained glass windows in the architecture of progressive synagogues on the example of the “Temple” Synagogue in Krakow.	111
DANIELA M. SCHMID: Besamim & Hasidim. The Sabbath soul and myrtle in Jewish mysticism and a selection of Eastern European spice boxes	121
SERGEY R. KRAVTSOV: Józef Awin on Jewish art and architecture.	131
SAMUEL D. GRUBER: Polish influence on American synagogue architecture.	145
JULIA WEINER: “Zealots and dreamers aiming at something to which only millionaires and powerful nations can aspire.” The Ben Uri Art Society and its founders	155
IRINA SERGEYEVA: Destiny of the Museum of the Jewish Historical and Ethnographical Society after 1917	163

MONIKA CZEKANOWSKA: Portraits of “biblical” women in Maurycy Gottlieb’s and Wilhelm Wachtel’s painting. A semiotic and iconographic approach to the pictures of Judith and Salome	183
TAMARA SZTYMA–KNASIECKA: Jewish idiom in the art of Henryk Glicenstein	197
ARTUR KAMCZYCKI: Herzl’s portrait by Leopold Pilichowski. Meanings of the picture . . .	209
NATASZA STYRNA: The influence of the Zionist’s ideology on the Jewish artistic milieu in Krakow, 1904–1939.	223
SARAH MACDOUGALL: From Warsaw to Whitechapel: an exploration of cultural and artistic identity in the early work of Alfred Aaron Wolmark (ca 1876–1961)	231
ARTUR TANIKOWSKI: Heralds of moderate modernity: Polish–Jewish artists in Catalonia . . .	241
AVIGDOR W.G. POSÈQ: Jacques Lipchitz: sculpture as prayer	253
RACHEL DICKSON: Jacob Kramer (1892–1962): British Modernism and the Central Eastern Jewish émigré experience, 1913–1923	265
CAROL ZEMEL: Bruno Schulz’s Booke of Idolatry : making Jewish art in Diaspora	275
ELEONORA JEDLIŃSKA: Jankel Adler — Hasidism and New Jewish Art	283
IGOR DUKHAN: El Lissitzky and the search for New Jewish Art (Vitebsk — Moscow — Berlin)	291
GAIL LEVIN: Reflections on Lee Krasner and Jewish culture of Eastern Europe	299
EUGENY KOTLYAR: Bezalel versus the Kultur–Lige: approaches to Jewish revival	305
MALGORZATA STOLARSKA–FRONIA: Jewish Expressionism — a quest for cultural space . . .	313
KEITH HOLZ: Max Silberberg’s commitment to modern art and Jewish culture in interwar Breslau.	319
RENATA PIĄTKOWSKA: Not just writers... Artists at Tlomackie 13	325
VILMA GRADINSKAITE: Attitudes of interwar Lithuanian art critics towards Jewish art . . .	337
AVIV LIVNAT: Arieh Merzer and Warsaw’s interwar metaloplastics art scene.	345
ANDRZEJ SZCZERSKI: Beyond modernity. Benedykt Jerzy Dorys’ photos of Polish–Jewish Kazimierz in the 1930s	353
MAYA BALAKIRSKY KATZ: Rebbishe representation: pre–war Polish photography of Hasidic leaders	363
MAGDALENA TARNOWSKA: Art in the Warsaw Ghetto	371
ANNA MARKOWSKA: Reconstructing community: Jonas Stern’s art after the Holocaust . . .	385
PIOTR JUSZKIEWICZ: Space and memory. Oskar Hansen’s project of the Auschwitz Monument.	397
ZIVA AMISHAI–MAISELS: Disappearance of the identity of a Holocaust victim in art.	407