

TABLE OF CONTENTS

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS	7
INTRODUCTION	9
CHAPTER 1
The Political Ascendancy of the younger branch of the House of Brunswick–Lüneburg around 1700	14
CHAPTER 2
The Hanoverian court under the first electors. The patronage of art and architecture in Hanover before 1714	38
2. 1. The Hanoverian court under Ernest August and Sophia. 1680–1698	40
2. 2. Architectural patronage in Hanover prior to the reign of George Louis	51
2. 3. The Hanoverian court under George Louis. 1698–1714	81
2.4. The architectural patronage of George Louis of Brunswick–Lüneburg	84
CHAPTER 3
The Palladio–inspired projects related to the patronage of George Louis of Brunswick–Lüneburg, the elector of Hanover	97
3.1. The designs for Palladian villas attributed to Lambert Friedrich Corfey and Gottfried Laurenz Pictorius	97
3.2. The anonymous design for the electoral lodge in Wienhausen	147
3.3. The significance of the villa as a building type associated with the patronage of George Louis of Brunswick–Lüneburg	171
CHAPTER 4
The dissemination of the architectural idiom associated with the Hanoverian court. 1680–1714	177
4.1. The architecture sponsored by the Hanoverian aristocracy	182
4.2. Brunswick–Wolfenbüttel. Guelph Palladianism	194
4.3. Brandenburg — Prussia. Palladianism and the Protestant monarchy	219
4.4. The Electorate of the Palatinate. The Stuart legacy. The theoretical foundations of the Palladian revival in Germany around 1700	232
4.5. The Landgrave of Hesse–Cassel. Visionary Palladianism	248
4.6. Hanoverian Palladianism versus the Reichsstil	261

CHAPTER 5
The Hanoverian court and the English Palladian revival of the eighteenth century	273
LIST OF ABBREVIATIONS	339
TABLE OF ILLUSTRATIONS	341
BIBLIOGRAPHY	345
INDEX OF NAMES	366
INDEX OF PLACES	371